Many, many thanks for your responsiveness, honesty and help. I very much appreciate your comments. It s a constant surprise selling (and buying!) via that medium. The good side of it though is that many solid relationships do develop as a result.

It has been very refreshing to work with a person who has such high business principles and understanding and living by what they say. Handshake deals are unheard of in today's business world where we have to make lawyers rich by getting them involved in every deal. If the circumstances ever arise again it will be a privilege to work with you again.
